HAVING purchased the residence and school property of Prof. E. A. Grant, I am glad to announce to my numerous patrons and to the public, that I am now enabled to continue my School with increased advantages. The School-building is a large and commodious one, built upon the most approved plan; well ventilated, and furnished with books of the latest style. The location is a pleasant one—in the quiet and retired part of South Frankfort. With these increased facilities, I hope to be able to establish a School with such a system of discipline, and instruction as will commend itself to all parents and lovers of a thorough classical education. MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

A message was received from the Governor, by T. B. MONROE, JR., Esq., announcing that he had signed a joint resolution in relation to the line between Tennessee and Kentucky.

Also, transmitting the report of the Trustees of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum.

Also, transmitting a bill which had originated in this House, entitled, "an act to amend the charter of the city of Augusta, with his objections thereto."

[The enrolled bill, as transmitted to the Governor, had no title, and as the Constitution requires that the object of the bill shall be embraced in the title, he was compelled to withhold his signature.]

The question being taken upon the passage of the bill, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor, it stood as follows: yeas 93, nays 33.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The House then took up the following joint resolutions which had passed the Senate, viz:

WHEREAS, The citizens of Kentucky have been for a series of years, and are still subjected to an annual loss involving thousands of thousands of dollars, by the escape from the State of persons held to service or labor in the State, under the constitution and laws of the United States, and under the constitution and laws of the State of

Kentucky, into the British possessions of North America; AND, WHEREAS, No treaty exists between the government of Great Britain and the United States for the reclamation and extradition of persons so escaping from labor or service: therefore, be it

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and Representatives be requested, strongly to urge upon the treaty making power of the government of the United States the necessity of amending the tenth section of our treaty with Great Britain in regard to fugitives from justice, which was ratified at London, on the 13th day of October, 1842, by the British minister and American envoy respectively, so as to include in its provisions fugitives from labor, so held under the constitution and laws of the United States, or of either of the States.

2. Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be requested to forward, under his official seal, a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and a like copy to the President of the United States.

And the question being taken, said resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Also, a joint resolution in relation to the appointment of a committee to visit the Western Lunatic Asylum near Hopkinsville: adopted.

The House next took up the resolution read and laid on the table yesterday, providing for a recess of the Legislature from the 24th of December, 1859, to the 4th of January, 1860.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

FRANKFORT.

THOMAS M. GREEN, Editor.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1859.

Send in Your Clubs.

The friends of the Commonwealth will be pleased to learn that the subscription list for the Daily was never before so large as it now is; the advertising patronage is also so much increased as to trespass on our editorial columns. May we not ask our friends, personal, and political to exert themselves to give our paper a still greater circulation among the people. There is no county in the State in which at least a dozen subscribers could not be added to our list by a slight effort on the part of our friends, and though the sum collected from each would be trifling, the aggregate would be an immense advantage to us. It would at once place the paper on a paying basis, and enable the publishers to enlarge and improve it. Manifestly it is the advantage of those who have already subscribed for the Commonwealth to get others to follow their example. Increase our subscription list, gentlemen, and we will repay you by sending you a better paper. There is nothing like encouragement and patronage to promote enterprise and industry. If you wish work out of those you employ, you must feed them well.

It is hardly necessary to repeat that we widely differ from Hon. THOMAS CORWIN upon the subject of Congressional exclusion of slavery from the Territories, or that we deem his opinions upon that subject calculated to promote mischief if carried out. But if we are not greatly deceived in him, Mr. Corwin is no mere "one idea" man, and would readily forego the practical enforcement of the opinions of his party upon that subject in order to secure peace and harmony to the country. Apart from this question he is as sound a statesman as there is in the country, and after reading his good humored and moderate speech delivered in Congress the other day, we have a lingering suspicion that Mr. Corwin only accepts that dogma of the Republicans in order to gain an ascendancy among them and thus induce them to return to paths of reason and moderation. He dislikes slavery as all Northern men do, but his devotion to our common country and to the Constitution is greater than his repugnance to the peculiar institution, and he would cheerfully stifle any little qualms he has upon that question, if by so doing he could gain the consent of all parties to abandon useless and unprofitable agitation and turn their attention to subjects of practical interest and importance to the country. If all Republicans were like Mr. Corwin, the slavery question could be settled in a few days as far as Congress is, as it is already settled as far as the people of the Territories are concerned. Despite of his heresies on this Territorial question, there is a certain staunch, old fashioned patriotism about him which we like to see, and which we cannot help but think will finally direct him in the right way. But we are utterly opposed to any Southern Opposition Congressman voting for him for Speaker of the House, so long as he continues to favor the exclusion of slavery from the Territories by Congressional Legislation. They made the fight against the heresies of both the Republicans and Democrats, and they must stand by their ground, unless those parties will adopt more rational courses than has heretofore been their custom.

CHRISTMAS RECESS.—On yesterday the House of Representatives resolved to adjourn on the 23d inst. until the 4th of January next—about eleven days in all. This will allow the members of the Legislature to visit the counties from which they were sent, and consult their constituents upon questions which have already arisen before them, but which will not be finally disposed of for some weeks; and to see their families and arrange their own private matters of business. It will also afford the Clerks, who almost necessarily fall behind, to catch up with the business of the two Houses. And, more than all, it will give the editor of the Commonwealth a short respite; he is therefore strongly in favor of the Senate adopting this resolution. The wish to see their wives and children is a natural one in our Legislators, who have not discarded their feelings as men in undertaking to make laws for the State. Let the motion pass.

EXHIBITION.—On last Wednesday night, Mr. JACOBS, the Principal of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Danville, gave a pleasing exhibition of four of the pupils of that institution before the members of the Legislature and a large number of the citizens of Frankfort. They were examined in geography, arithmetic, history, and other studies, and their ready answers bore testimony to the skill and care of their teachers. At the conclusion of the exhibition an address to the Legislature, by one of the pupils, a remarkably intelligent young man from Lexington, appealing for aid to the institution which is the means of so much good to the unfortunate class of which he is one, was read to the audience by Mr. JACOBS. It will be hard, indeed, for the Legislature to refuse a liberal appropriation to such a class, thus eloquently advocated by one who is a brilliant illustration of the advancement of which the Deaf and Dumb are susceptible. The Institution needs the money asked for it, and no hesitation should be felt in voting it.

Gov. McWILLIE, of Mississippi, has recently communicated a special message to the Legislature of that State, recommending the payment of the Planters' Bank Bonds of that State. This debt originally amounted to $2,000,000, and is now about $1,000,000. The leading Democratic organs think the message and recommendation were "extraordinary and inappropriate." They oppose the payment, because the law under which the bonds were issued was unconstitutional and invalid. But the Supreme Court of that State has decided, in effect, the contrary, and already $100,000 of the interest has been paid; yet the champions of repudiation in Mississippi still insist upon non-payment.

Kentucky and the Union.

To the Editor of the Frankfort Commonwealth:
The spirit of disunion is getting rampant in South Carolina, and a recommendation has gone forth from the Executive of that State to "arm and equip." Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, sympathize. Virginia, smarting under a recent act of mad aggression, and lashed into a little temper by her Chief Magistrate, talks wildly. And even a proud Kentuckian, catching some thing of the common infection, from his seat in the National House of Representatives, has spoken of the present posture of affairs—the excitement between the North and the South—as a condition of things in which, should it continue, the people of Kentucky will be "ready to go out of this Union."

In full view from the House in which that declaration was made, almost within hearing distance of the Speaker's voice, is now going up a marble column, in honor of him whose toil and wisdom contributed more than any other man's, to cement the several parts of the Union thus threatened. For its appropriate place in this gigantic column, "the people of Kentucky," by a unanimous vote of their Legislature, have supplied a block of the native marble of their State; and upon this block stand inscribed, in letters that it is hoped centuries will not obliterate, these noble words: "UNDER THE AUSPICES OF HEAVEN, AND THE PRECEPTS OF WASHINGTON, KENTUCKY WILL BE THE LAST TO GIVE UP THE UNION."

The two oracles stand opposed in declaration, as to the steadfast patriotism of this State—Without disparagement of the man, I prefer the marble, as being a truer exponent, or representative idea, of the sentiment of "the people of Kentucky," with reference to the value and permanence of the Union; and I trust I may be pardoned if, amid severer duties, I permit my fancy to glide into numbers, in expressing what I think and feel upon the subject under view.

Your friend, &c. G.
FRANKFORT, Dec. 14, 1859.

Kentucky.
By the grace of Highest Heaven,
By the precepts of the good,
By the blood our sires have given
To cement this Brotherhood;
(This young brotherhood of nations—
Sovereign each within its sphere,
Yet to certain obligations
Lending all a willing ear)—
By the many recognitions
Of this brotherhood we've made;
By its broad and high conditions
To the whole wide world displayed;
By the great, the good, the glorious,
O'er our civic pages spread;
By the flag, that floats victorious
Wherever our sons are led;
By the living—by the dead—
If the stars of this brotherhood sever,
And the rent orbs shoot madly about,
Kentucky will follow them never,
But stand by her first faith forever,
And refuse even at last to go out.

Though the star-spangled banner be torn by the gale,
And orb after orb in its heaven grow pale,
One star, which till now with the many has shone,
Will illumine each fold of its glory alone!

II.
Come with party—come with faction
Marching its threatening host;
Come complaining of infraction
Of the laws we cherish most;
Come a neighbor's customs scorning,
Threatening them with overthrow;
Come with words of war or warning,
Couched in phrases high or low;
Come in heat, or come in coolness,
From the North, or from the South;
Come with all the spirit's fullness
Quivering round the flexible mouth;
Come with prayer, or malediction—
Come unknown, or of renown;
Come with fraud—with fact or fiction—
Come with smile, or come with frown;
Still, Kentucky bids you, "down!"
For, should this bright brotherhood sever,
And its rent stars shoot madly about,
Kentucky's will follow them never,
But blaze on the broad blue forever.
And refuse even at last to go out.

Though the star-spangled banner be torn by the gale,
And orb after orb in its heaven grow pale,
One star, which till now with the many has shone,
Shall illumine each fold of its glory alone!

Valuable Book—Stanton's Revised Statutes.

This edition of the Revised Statutes will be of incalculable value to the legal profession, and to all others in Kentucky, who are concerned in the administration of public justice.

The Revised Statutes, as prepared by Messrs. NICHOLAS, WICKLIFF and TURNER, went into operation on the 1st of July, 1852. Since that time there have been three sessions of the Legislature, at each of which various modifications of its provisions were made. So radical and numerous have been the changes and amendments, that the legal profession find nearly as much difficulty in determining what the existing law is as they did previous to the adoption of the Revised Statutes. Stanton's edition of the Revised Statutes will relieve the profession of this difficulty. It contains not only the provisions of the Revised Statutes as originally published, but all the amendments of every kind which have been made thereto. It also contains abstracts arranged under the appropriate heads, of every published decision of the Court of Appeals (including those in 1st Metcalfe), in reference to those provisions of the Revised Statutes and the amendments thereto which have come up before that court for its construction.

This work possesses another admirable feature. It contains among other things the laws of a general nature, passed since the Revised Statutes went into operation, in reference to Banks, Civil Proceedings, Corporations, Express Companies, Fine Arts, Geological and Mineralogical Survey, Railroad Companies, Voluntary Associations, State Agricultural Society, Courts in Jefferson County, Asylum for the Blind, Congressional Districts, Fish, Liberia, Minors at School, &c.

Every lawyer, judge, justice of the peace, and others connected with the administration of justice ought to have the book. They can then see in one book all the statute laws of Kentucky of a general nature, with the construction thereof by the Court of Appeals of so many of them as have come before it. They can then avoid the necessity of buying and looking through the acts of several sessions of the Legislature. This book is published by Robert Clarke & Co., of Cincinnati, and may be had at the bookstore of S. C. BULL in this city. 2 vols. $10.

Douglas Jerrold calls woman's arms "the serpents that winds about a man's neck, killing his resolutions."

Decision of the Court of Appeals.

[Reported expressly for the Commonwealth by JOHN M. BROWN, Attorney at Law, Frankfort, Ky.]

Mills vs. Brown.
From the Taylor Circuit Court.

The Court, per Wood, Judge, held—That the attachments in these causes were properly issued, and the court did not err in sustaining them.

By sec. 221, Civil Code, in an action for the recovery of money, when the action is against a defendant or several defendants who, or some one of whom, * * * has departed from this State with intent to defraud his creditors, or * * * so conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him, the plaintiff may have an attachment at, or after the commencement of the action, &c.

The act of the 10th March, 1856, only affects this section as to the ground of non-residency.—Now the non-residence of one or more of several defendants to a civil action, is no cause of attachment against the separate property of any of the defendants resident in this State; but the other grounds in the section are unaffected by the act. The plaintiff—his action being for the recovery of money, and having alleged the existence of both of the grounds above referred to, and contained in the section aforesaid—is, by the express terms of said action, entitled to an attachment against the property of all of the defendants.

The actions were ex contractu. The petitions alleged specific sums to be due to the plaintiff, which was not specifically controverted by the answers; and the appellants were actually summoned. It was not erroneous, therefore, without the intervention of a jury, and proof of the demands, to render judgments in personam for the sums named therein. (Harris vs. Roy, 15 B. Mon. 630; Francis vs. Francis, 18 B. Mon. 60.)

But there is a manifest error in the judgment for the sale of land. It was adjudged that the land should be sold subject to a lien of J. Martin—who was no party to the action—for his purchase money, he being the vendor of Mills & Colwell. His lien, if he had one, had not been asserted, nor had the amount for which he held it been ascertained. A sale of property, subject to an uncertain and unliquidated incumbrance of this character, tends to the sacrifice of the property and to the injury of those interested therein. A commissioner would not know what he was selling, nor the purchaser the extent and value of the interest he was purchasing. Such decrees of sale have often been held by this court to be erroneous. The error is not cured by the order to the clerk contained in the judgment, to copy the deed from Martin and wife to Mills & Colwell. The deed does not show conclusively that there was still a subsisting lien in favor of Martin; and, still less did it ascertain the value of that lien if there was one.

This is a valid objection to the confirmation of the sheriff's sale. Before a sale was made, the fact of a lien in favor of Martin and its value, if there was one, should have been definitely ascertained by a judgment of the court; and this might have been done by the original judgment for the sale, or by proper supplemental proceedings.

It is not necessary to reverse the order of sale, even were it properly reversible upon this appeal. But the order confirming the report and sale of the commissioner is reversed, and the cause remanded to the Circuit Court, with directions to cause the supposed lien holder, Martin, to be brought before the court, and by appropriate supplemental proceedings, determine whether he holds a lien on the property; and, if he does hold such lien, ascertain the sum secured thereby, and for further proceedings in conformity with the principles of this opinion.

The Present Legislature.

I have seen statements in several newspapers to the effect that the present Democratic Legislature is more industrious, and that it dispatches business more rapidly, than former Legislatures of different politics. Now, sir, I do not believe there is a word of truth in this assertion. I would not detract one iota from any credit due to this Legislature for industry; but having been long a resident of Frankfort, and a very constant reader of the reports of proceedings of the Legislature, I think I can safely affirm that there have been full as many bills, resolutions, &c., finally disposed of by several other Legislative bodies in Kentucky, as by the present. It is true that a large amount of business is in progress of preparation by the committees of each House, but not many matters have yet been disposed of, so far as the reports of proceedings published in your paper and the Yeoman show. Many other Legislatures, which have met in our Capitol, have been fully as industrious, and have finally disposed of as much business in the same time as the present body.

I believe, however, this will be a working session, though not more so than several others; but whether the acts passed will redound to the good of the country is yet to be seen. I hope they may.

Yours truly,
SPECTATOR.

The use of Dr. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS for Dyspepsia, Flatulence, Heaviness of the Stomach, or any other like affection, is second to none in America or abroad. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" are a certain cure for dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy so indispensable for the restoration of health. The numerous acknowledgments of its superior excellence and beneficial results, have assured the proprietors that it cannot but prove a great cure to the afflicted, and impart vitality to the thorough system. See advertisement in another column.

There will be a meeting of the Red Cross Lodge of the Sons of Malta, to-night, at their room, on Main street, over Keenon & Crutcher's Book store. Visiting members are invited to attend.

ACCIDENT.—The morning train from Louisville did not reach Frankfort on yesterday until nearly 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The delay was caused by the breaking of an axle on the tender.

We seldom regret having been too mild, too cautious, or too humble; but we often regret having been too violent, too precipitate, or too proud.

Watts v. Watts, Clarke; argument concluded by Buckner for appellee and Chas. Hanson for appellant.

The Washington Correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says:

It is reported and believed that Douglas asked an interview with Buchanan for the purpose of a reconciliation. The result is not definitely known, some asserting that Buchanan indignantly repulsed him, and others stating a reconciliation was effected, and that Logan's speech was the result of it. In either case, how are the mighty fallen.

We see it stated that Elder ALEXANDER CAMPBELL's mission to Missouri was eminently satisfactory. He collected contributions in cash to the amount of $2,000, and was promised $6,272 more. It will be devoted to rebuilding the burned portion of Bethany College, Virginia.
